During this period the emphasis of the campaign has been laid particularly upon the importance of increasing our equipment for the institutional care of tuberculous patients. The response has exceeded expectation and has been particularly encouraging in the degree to which local and state governments have accepted responsibility for the situation. Under these conditions the problem of tuberculosis from the institutional point of view is to care for the largest possible number of patients at the lowest possible cost compatible with efficient results. While it is true that institutional expense is much more a matter of maintenance than of original cost of construction it is equally true that careful preliminary planning is the chief factor in subsequent...
